WOMAN'S CLUB SETS CHRISTMAS BRIDGE

Mrs. W. C. Peterson, chairman of the card section of the Woman's Club, has announced that there will be a Christmas bridge at the clubhouse on December 11, at 1 P.M. Admission will be one thin dime and a white elephant. Lots of fun is anticipated.

On December 4 the club will hold a musical afternoon. Gladys Steel will sing folk and character songs and Carl Hague will be the featured tenor.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warren Fairbanks of Pasadena are currently vacationing on the Monterey Peninsula, having come up to spend Thanksgiving with her sister and brother-in-law, the William L. Hudsons at Pebble Beach.

We made a solemn promise we would not mention Christmas until after Thanksgiving on account of you can't tell whether it's last Christmas or the one coming up the stores celebrate these days. But something is bothering us which we think should be brought up in plenty of time. What do you do about the Bobby-Soxers? No stockings! They get gypped. Or is it cricket to borrow mother's nylons or those golf hose father used to wear back in the terrible twenties?

"gadgets unlimited"

can help you solve the problem. Wonderful little things specially designed to fill the bobby-soxer's socks.

TESTIMONIAL...

Did we tell you about the charming lady who drove all the way from Santa Cruz to get a package of De-Moist? (Keeps closets dry...very useful right now.) And all because of these ads in the SPECTATOR. So you see it pays to read even if advertising in general is one of the great American delusions and a helluva racket.

Apropos of which if your salt won't pour and your crackers are just a mess of library paste it is nobody's fault but your own for not getting Blue Magic Ever-Crisp from like we are always telling you. YOU are in for a long wet winter.

"gadgets unlimited"

The perfect accessory for those insulting Partch highballs: cocktail mits mit bells on and a shocking barbecue apron with detachable falsies that make efficient pot lifters. We understand the D.A. is planning to raid

BIRTH ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. John Douglas Campbell of Carmel are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son, who arrived earlier this month. The baby has been named John Douglas, Jr. His grandparents are Mrs. Argyll Campbell and the late Mr. Campbell of Carmel and Dr. and Mrs. Harry C. Rodgers of San Francisco. He is a new nephew for Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Campbell of Carmel and Mr. and Mrs. Alton Walker of Pebble Beach.

Carmel Work Center Notes

By Carol Tindell

If we may paraphrase "Better things for better living" to "Beautiful things for beautiful living" we can best tell you the main purpose of Carmel Work Center. We want the people of the Peninsula to know and appreciate the creations of craftsmen who live on the Peninsula. These craftsmen are among the finest in the world. Their art is a far older expression than that of the artists who paint on canvas. Many of these craftsmen may utilize modern methods to facilitate the creation of their designs; others still use the old formulas; but no matter how they produce their designs, the work itself is creative... a tangible, useful expression of art. Only sensitive, educated hands can translate a graphic design or idea into works of art such as we have displayed in our shops.

Our shops are the craftsmen's galleries...here their creations are on display for you. In selecting one of their creations as a gift or for yourself--you are buying a work of art.

BIG BENEFIT FASHION SHOW AT PINE INN

Frank Miller of the Pine Inn Garden Restaurant in the Pine Inn has announced that there will be a monster benefit fashion show at the Inn on Saturday evening, December 2, at 7:30 p.m.

The show will be for the Carmel Youth Center and the Carmel Mission Restoration fund. Tickets are $5.00 each, and early reservations are advised.

Showing the latest fashions will be a group of leading Carmel dress shops. Those participating will be announced next week.

SILVER TEA AND DOLL BAZAAR FOR WOMEN'S CLUB

Mrs. John Belvail of Kelseyville, California, has come to attend the Silver Tea and Doll Bazaar to be held in the Carmel Woman's Club on Sunday afternoon, December 3, from 2 to 6 o'clock, and to present to the bazaar a beautiful child-size doll which she has made and dressed. The tea and bazaar, which are sponsored by the Mothers' Club of Junipero Serra School, is for the benefit of the children of the school.

Members of the Parent-Teachers Association whose children attend the public school are also assisting in the dressing of dolls for the occasion.

The chief attraction is the Toni doll...she has real hair which can be combed and dressed--and the Toni wave will not come out.

Holly and the traditional red and green colors will be used for decorating the hall, thus putting everybody in the Christmas spirit. Sandwiches and delicious home made cakes and cookies will be served, and a background of Christmas music is planned. Mrs. Howard Veit, Mrs. John Neikirk, Mrs. Frank Andrews and Mrs. Frank Ross are in charge of the decorations.

Mrs. Roman Neumann, assisted by Mrs. Shelburn Robison and Mrs. Kenneth White, is in charge of the affair.

ANNUAL ELECTION OF M. P. GARDEN CLUB

The annual election of officers of the Monterey Peninsula Garden Club has just been held. Elected were Mr. Earl de Smidt, as president, Mrs. Weston Booth, vice-president, Mrs. Harry Diffenbaugh, Jr., secretary, Mr. E. H. Dankworth, treasurer, and Mrs. Harold Prince, corresponding secretary.

The second annual Christmas bazaar will be held December 15 at the Pacific Grove Woman's Clubhouse, from 10 to 5 o'clock. Featured will be Christmas wreaths and other holiday decorations.

"STREETS OF NEW YORK" ANOTHER FIRST THEATRE SUCCESS

Historic First Theatre of Monterey was the scene last Friday evening of another gala "first night," when the Denny-Watrous Management presented the Troupers of the Gold Coast in the revived melodrama "The Streets of New York."

The cast was complete-with a noble hero to applaud, a wronged widow and her two children to weep over, an irresistible comedian to laugh with, and a dyed-in-the-wool villain to hiss and boo.

The commercial panics of 1837 and 1857 were the background for the play, and the City of New York the setting.

Gideon Bloodgood (played by Bud Houghton - "villainously"), a cruel and mercenary double-crossing banker, was saved, in the opening scene, from financial ruin by the sudden and timely demise of Captain Fairweather (Wayne Edwards), the latter having deposited a hundred thousand dollars with Bloodgood just prior to his (Fairweather's) death. Hush money was given "Badger" (Alex Olivetti), a loveable if questionable character, who was the only person to witness the transaction. The plot thereafter weaves itself about the receipt for the old captain's deposit, which Badger (trusting only the audience with the secret) cannily tucks into his pocket--and conceals for twenty years.

The deceased captain's widow and children (Mrs. Star Ellis, James Rutledge and Faith Ellis), ignorant of the money deposited in the bank for their security, descend lower and lower in the scale of piteous and humiliating poverty, three tragic and destitute--yet ever noble--figures.

John Mitchell portrayed the handsome young aristocrat, Mark Livingstone, who has wasted his fortune and is likewise in financial distress, loves the gentle and modest Lucy Fairweather, but is pursued by arrogant Alida Bloodgood (Mrs. Jeanne Rutledge), spoiled daughter of the banker, who lures the hero with gold as far as--but no farther--than the altar steps.

True love and true virtue conquer in the end, but twenty years take their toll before the ruthless Bloodgood is brought to his knees, and his villainous counterpart, daughter Alida, properly humbled.

Every one of the above actors played his part marvellously. They were perfectly cast. Outstanding acting was done, too, by John Burgers as the generous and lovable Puffy, Mrs. Jean Stone as Mrs. Puffy and Richard du Brau as Dan Puffy. While onstage, "Puffy" really stole the show just with his facial expressions; and "Dan" never failed to get a laugh from the audience--with no facial expression.

At the close of the performance there were calls for "Rhea" (the Peninsula's well loved and talented Rhea Diveley), who was presented with flowers in appreciation for her fine directing. She received a warm ovation from both cast and audience.

The olio was--as always--hilarious. The vitality and spontaneity of the actors elicited a warm and genuine response from the spectators. The can-can alone was worth the price of admission.

Bud Houghton, master of ceremonies, explained the dictionary meaning of "olio" as "a mixture" or "vegetable stew." "We'll provide the stew, you provide....." he threw out at the audience, getting even with us for our hisses.

Very special credit should go to Rhoda Johnson, who designed the priceless costumes and arranged the settings; and to Wilda Reed, whose old-time numbers at the piano created just the proper atmosphere.

Thanks for the evening, Miss Denny, Miss Watrous, Miss Diveley, Mr. Houghton!

ARMED SERVICES YMCA HOSPITALITY BALL DEC. 2

FRANK LLOYD, famous motion picture director, will act as master of ceremonies for the Third Annual Hospitality Ball to be given by the Armed Services Y.M.C.A. at the Soldiers' Club, Fort Ord, Saturday night, December 2. Mr. Lloyd, who lives in Carmel Valley, was director of the pageant at the Centennial last year.

Harold McLean and Harold Brewer, in charge of obtaining acts for the floor show for the ball, announced that they have engaged several entertainers and there will be a complete floor show.

Mrs. Martha Bentley, chairman of the decoration committee, and 52 U.S.O. girls of the "Y" have completed arrangements for decorating the hall so that it will be a very festive occasion. They have obtained evergreen boughs from the Del Monte Properties Company.

This dance is given for the purpose of raising funds for holiday programs for the service men in this area, so that they will enjoy a real Christmas and New Year's celebration at their "home away from home" at the El Estero Y.M.C.A. Frank Adams, director of the "Y", says his staff has arranged an elaborate program for the holiday season, which makes it necessary to obtain funds from the ball to pay for the celebration.

Each year thousands of boys from Fort Ord and other military installations on the Peninsula have been entertained at Christmas at the "Y" and more are expected this year because of the increase in military personnel at the fort.

A CHRISTIAN BASIS for world peace and brotherhood will be the subject of a public lecture by Arthur C. Whitney of Chicago, announced for next Tuesday evening by First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Carmel.

Formerly an Army Chaplain and now a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship, Mr. Whitney is on an extended lecture tour. He will speak in the church auditorium, Monte Verde and 6th at 8 P.M. on November 28, 1950. His subject will be "Christian Science: A Foundation for World Brotherhood and Peace."

Mr. Whitney served as Chaplain with a front-line outfit during the 1918 Allied offensive in Belgium. He had been educated for machine designing, but nearly lost his sight, and then was entirely healed by Christian Science treatment. This led him to study the subject more deeply, and subsequently he himself entered the practice of Christian Science healing, in which he has engaged since.

He has lectured throughout the United States and Canada, Great Britain, and also in Europe, since his appointment to The Christian Science Board of Lectureship in 1914.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR MRS. ROY FRATIES

A surprise farewell party was held last week for Mrs. Roy Fraties at her home in Carmel. A large number of friends gathered to present Mrs. Fraties with a going-away gift and to say good-by to her.

Mrs. Fraties is the wife of Roy Fraties, for fourteen years chief of police of Carmel, and now a special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Fraties has been assigned to the Phoenix, Arizona, area, where Mrs. Fraties and young son Arvid have joined him.

NEWSPAPER MAN WEDS IN PACIFIC GROVE

Virginia Elnora Schwabenland, daughter of Mrs. Elsie Schwabenland of Fresno, became the bride of Robert Edgar Bohm of San Francisco, at rites performed last Saturday morning at St. Angela's Church in Pacific Grove.

The bride, given in marriage by an uncle, Emil Frisch of Fresno, wore a ballet length gown of white lace fashioned with a high neckline, long sleeves and a full skirt. Her elbow length veil was held to her hair with a halo of the lace. She carried a prayer book covered with white orchids.

Mrs. Barbara J. Kuhlman of Fresno, the bride's only attendant, wore a gown of light blue metallic cloth fashioned on lines similar to the bride's. Her flowers were pink carnations.

James Bohm served as best man for his brother.

A wedding breakfast followed at Del Monte Lodge, Pebble Beach, where the cake was cut and champagne toasts drunk to the newlyweds.

Following a three-week wedding trip the newlyweds will make their home in San Francisco, where the bridegroom is associated with the San Francisco Examiner.

AWVS TEA TO HONOR FACULTY

Mrs. Frank G. Ringland, chairman of the Monterey County AWVS, and Mrs. G. W. C. Whiting, chairman of the international relations committee of this organization, are busily preparing for one of the series of teas sponsored by the AWVS, to be held on Sunday, November 26, at the Pebble Beach residence of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Bower. This tea will honor members of the faculty and their wives from the Army Language School at the Presidio.

IF IT'S A SPECIAL BOOK you are planning to give someone for Christmas, don't forget that the POOR SCHOLAR BOOK SHOP can take special orders if the particular book is not in stock--but you should count on at least two weeks for the book to arrive from the East. This bookshop caters to all--except persons with poor taste. There are books for everyone, and I jotted down the titles of some that I thought would be fine gifts for men. They are American Locomotives by Edwin P. Alexander, a pictorial record of steam power, which should be most satisfactory for the man whose hobbies are locomotives; the Mid-Century Edition 1900-1950, a dramatic picture history of fifty turbulent years, would be just right to give the man who takes a spirited interest in the world about him. Then there is that old classic, The Travels of Marco Polo, in a beautiful Press Edition. Other classics are an illustrated volume by Rockwell Kent of Leaves of Grass, and The Complete Poems of Carl Sandburg. Finally, Our Mountain Heritage by Anne Roller Issler, tells of the Silverado and Robert Louis Stevenson; and Burning Bright, the controversial play novelette by James Steinbeck, give you a very fine group to choose from--and you can be sure you won't miss pleasing the man you are selecting for. THE POOR SCHOLAR BOOK SHOP, at Polk and Hartnell in Monterey, also wishes to remind you that there is still time for personalized greeting cards for Christmas.

DINE AND WINE WHERE THE CHARM AND TRADITION OF EARLY CALIFORNIA ADOBE has been preserved...and the modern service is at its best. CASA SERRANO, formerly De la Torre, is an old adobe building owned by the Serrano Estate and now features genuine Italian dinners, charcoal broiled chops and steaks. This attractive restaurant is open on week-days from 5:00 to 10 o'clock, and on holidays and Sundays from 2:00 to 10 o'clock. The dinners are from $1.85 up. If you want the warm pleasant atmosphere of the early padres it is waiting for you at CASA SERRANO at 2412 Pacific Avenue, Monterey. Telephone 2-6550 for reservations.

WATER AND FISH...From the days of Roman and Greek mythology on up to the Middle Ages...these were symbols of light and intelligence. Now fish is a festive food in practically every country in the world, and our fisherman with the aid of modern transportation facilities are able to bring fish from all parts of the United States fresh to you for your enjoyment. SUNNY BOY PILOT SEAFOOD RESTAURANT has for sale in its fish counter Cape Cod (Catiot) oysters which have just been received from Boston. These have been hard to get because of the storms. They're really delicious on the half shell. In addition, there is Dungeness crab, Pacific Coast live lobsters from Santa Barbara, famous butter clams from Seattle, and Rocky Point shrimp (prawns) from the blue waters of Mexico, which are delicious for frying; also scallops from Naragansett, Rhode Island...and from Maryland's famous Chesapeake Bay oysters in jars running approximately 24 to the pint. For $1.00 your family can have a feast. This wonderful variety of fish is now on hand at the fish counter, but if you would rather, you can order any of it cooked in the dining room. As soon as these storms subside, Sunny Boy of SUNNY BOY PILOT SEAFOOD RESTAURANT, the first restaurant you come to on Fisherman's Wharf, expects to have all the other fresh sea foods. There is also a little bar where you can whet your appetite with an appetizer, or select the wine to accompany your meal.

HAVE A WHIRL in a combination of white lace jacket over a little black bodice dress! When you remove the jacket you have a decollete dress that will get you the majority of the votes. This same little dress is available in black lace over grey...at the COLLEGIATE DRESS SHOP in Monterey.

If you wish to be a demure little angel at your parties, you can choose a crepe dress in aqua, pink or black, with a low scalloped neckline with brilliants. The cute pockets are also trimmed with brilliants.

For a little more cover-up wear, there is an all-wool jersey with satin trim on collar and short sleeves--in pink, aqua or grey. These dresses I've described are just a few of the many combinations of bright party dresses that have just been unpacked at the COLLEGIATE DRESS SHOP at 489 Alvarado in Monterey.

A FAR CRY from early California architecture is the new Monterey Peninsula Airport building. The views above show (top) the main entrance, (center) the ticket window in the lobby, and (3) the exit to the passenger loading zone. Polaroid One-Minute Photograph.

THE LATEST CARMEL RAIN STYLE...modeled by Sumral O. Otrich, proprietor of Candles of Carmel, who, with his black cocker "Jerry," is a familiar Carmel figure, as he dropped into the Carmel SPECTATOR office on Saturday. The hat, which catches soft rain water for shaving, was borrowed from Otrich's business neighbor, Louise Sargent of Twigs of Carmel.

AND THE RAINS CAME--AND CAME--AND CAME. The above photographs, taken Sunday morning in Carmel Valley, are evidence of the 25-year high water record for the Carmel River this early in the season. (Upper scene) The bridge leading to Rancho Don Juan. The bridge held despite the pressure. (Lower) The river near the Morse Ranch. The preceding day the river had been dry. POLAROID One-Minute Photographs.

SLIDE, KELLY, SLIDE...but watch your car going by. ROCKS on a new stretch of the Carmel Valley Road. Pictures do not do justice to the size of the rocks as they appeared to the motorist, as he warily steered his way through. There is plenty of danger involved in such slides on a much traveled road, and the county is taking steps to eliminate the hazard.

"DEATH ON SUNDAY"

Playing at Wharf Theatre, Monterey

Anyone who hasn't yet seen Dan Totheroh's play, "Death on Sunday," is missing a dramatic treat. It is a stirring depiction of the deepest human emotions--love and hate.

It isn't often that the drama's author is also its director, but in this instance that is the happy circumstance...and who can bring to life the temperaments of his characters better than the "father" of the piece?

Terry Eby as Robert Millay, the psychopathic, yet fascinating, son of Bertha Millay, does a terrific job of his characterization. The nuances of speech and movement change him from the purringly smooth and gentle young man to the yelling madman or the whimpering coward. His ever-changing facial expressions are something to watch.

As Sybil Ebberts, Dee Olivetti portrays a young woman so deeply in love with the madman that it is a torture which causes her to change from blindly protecting him to maliciously pointing the finger of suspicion. In Act 3, no longer able to believe that he loves her in return, faced with the awful fact that he married her to "shut her up," her heart-broken denunciation of him and her tragic end give a dramatic climax which would stir the most stolid.

Dorothy Goudge, in the role of Mrs. Millay, is the lovely, gentle mother of Robert. Her whole live is wrapped up in her son, but because of her clinging and demanding love, Robert has developed a hate for her that is only somewhat justified by the fact that he worshipped his father, whom Mrs. Millay had driven out by her possessiveness. Dorothy Goudge is every inch the Mrs. Millay Dan Totheroh needed for the part.

A new comer to the Wharf Theatre stage, is Dodo Osborne in the part of Grace Cooley, who comes to the Millay house to rent a room and becomes mixed up in the tragic happenings there. Her nightgown-clad appearance in Act 2, when she is called upon to answer questions concerning the shooting of Mrs. Millay, is a highlight of the evening.

COMMUNITY CONCERT DECEMBER 1 AT PACIFIC GROVE AUDITORIUM

The opening concert of the Monterey Peninsula Community Concert Association 1950-51 season will present Ervin Laszlo Hungarian pianist, on Friday, December 1, at 8:15 in the Pacific Grove High School Auditorium.

Although born in Hungary, Ervin looks like any American boy and enjoys much the same things. He swims and likes mountain climbing. Photographs every town in which he concertizes and does his own developing.

He has played the piano since he was five years old, with the exception of the years of the Nazi occupation of Hungary, when he was forbidden the use of a piano. His mother was his first teacher; then he progressed with the help of other teachers to the famous Dohnanyi. At fourteen he won the Francois Liszt Prize and, in the same year, the Artist Diploma from the Academy of Music. At fifteen, in competition with 500 other pianists from some 40 countries, he won the Grand Prize at the International Music Competition in Geneva.

His American debut was made at New York's Town Hall on April 7, 1948, when critics hailed him, in spite of his youth, as one of the greatest musicians. He is now 17 years old. After his American debut he was interviewed by Life, Time and Newsweek magazines and his fame spread so quickly that he was soon engaged to appear with the Dallas, San Antonio and Houston Symphony Orchestras, under Dorati, Reiter and Kurtz.

This concert should be of special interest to the junior members of the Association, since the artist is of their own age group.

The auditorium doors will open at 7:30 and there will be secretaries on duty at the entrances to check on any memberships which may have been delayed through lack of proper addresses or changes of address since the drive closed last spring. Information concerning season memberships may be had by writing P.O. Box 300, Pacific Grove.

CARMEL TO HAVE NEW ARTIST GALLERIES

The Artists Guild of America, Inc. is opening new Carmel galleries at Monte Verde near the corner of Ocean, with separate entrance from the Golden Bough Court. The galleries will bring to Carmel a continuous exhibit of paintings, water colors and pastels by noted artists.

In an interview with Harold Smithson, president of the AGA Inc., he stated that for more than twenty years he and his sister, Cecilye Clayman, had greatly admired local Peninsula artists and had successfully exhibited and sold their works.

As portrait specialists, the Artists Guild of America, Inc. offers a special service to prospective sitters. They will assist in the choice of painters, bearing in mind the characteristics of the individual. They prefer also to arrange to have the work done in the home of the subject, feeling that there one is always more relaxed and comfortable.

Although it is the plan of Mr. Smithson to open galleries in San Francisco and Santa Barbara also, Carmel will be the headquarters for the state.

Mr. Smithson, well known in art circles in this country and abroad, has undertaken commissions for securing paintings from many parts of the world. Although the Smithsons have had a summer home in Carmel for many years, they are now making this their permanent residence.

The CARMEL SPECTATOR wishes the new galleries every success, feeling that the additional facilities for exhibits will give artists more space for making their work known to the public.

CARMEL DAIRY ENLARGED

The Carmel Dairy and the Eureka Dairy of Monterey have been combined, and are now offering additional services to the Peninsula area. Both dairies started in the early nineteen hundreds; both have their herds in Carmel Valley.

Equipment of the Eureka Dairy is being sold and $30,000 worth of new additional pasteuring and other machinery are being installed in Carmel at the dairy.

The Monterey dairy has been owned by the Littlefield family, who have been part owners also of the Carmel Dairy. The new combination will be known as The Carmel Dairy and will be owned and operated by Charles M. and Emma C. Littlefield and Earl F. Graft, the latter long familiar to Carmelites as the head of the Carmel Dairy.

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S

WHO IS IT?

Flags were out and waving the day that this week's "Who Is It?" was born. It was February 12, 1896, and some persons might think the flags were in honor of one Abraham Lincoln, but that wouldn't be the real reason, according to Alfred Rico. ("You can put 'Fat' in parentheses for my middle name," he said. "Why?" "Because I used to be.")

Al was born in Monterey, one of the thirteen children of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Rice. His father had a transfer business in Monterey and was also engaged in farming. The family is descended from some of the early California government figures, and Al has, in a sense, been in these parts ever since the days of Father Serra (which is what Bill Burke of the Carmel Hardware says of him).

He attended San Carlos Convent, and when the first World War came along, he and two of his brothers went into the infantry. Al and his brother Arthur were in the same regiment and served together in France. Al was discharged at Fort Mason in May, 1919.

For four years he lived the life of a cowboy on a ranch in the mountains near Los Angeles. In 1923 he moved to Carmel, working variously in Bob Leidig's hardware store, as a gardener, with M. J. Murphy, and finally as a chauffeur for fourteen years. He became custodian at the Carmel High School in 1940. won the affection of the kids and the hand of the former Miss June Martin, the school's financial secretary, whom he married in 1946. Al left the high school, worked in Monterey with a distributing company for three years, and recently returned to Carmel as a driver for the Carmel Cleaners.

He has a stepson, Walter Shaw, who is 16.

Al has been a member of the Carmel American Legion since 1919 and a member of the Monterey Elks for the last 15 years. He was also a part of the now defunct Monterey Drum Corps, composed of First World War veterans.

One of his most interesting and most harrowing memories: the time in 1946 when he was helping bring the cattle in on a local ranch and was knocked off his horse by a low branch of a tree. That was bad, but would have been worse if it hadn't been for another accident a few minutes later, when a horse fell on him. The doctor told him that the horse saved his life--the tree branch had caused a blot clot on his brain, which otherwise would have remained undiscovered until too late. As it was, he was unconscious for five weeks and cross-eyed for some time after that--but an eye specialist and a pair of glasses fixed him up as good as new.

SHE BROUGHT THE SUNSHINE with her. Margaret "Peg" Peasley, partner in the David Prince Travel Agency, Carmel, as she arrived in Carmel on Tuesday after a Pan-American World Airways flight from Honolulu. Miss Peasley departed from Carmel as the rains began, enjoyed the many sights entrancing to Hawaiian visitors, and returned with the sun. Thanks, Peg!

how does your garden grow?

By Edith L. Brattin
F. R. H. S.

Hardenbergia comptoniana deserves more popularity locally, in fact it should be first choice for a winter blooming vine. It has all the merits necessary to put it in the "good old standby" class. It blooms in January, cold weather or not, for it is hardy. The foliage is evergreen, clean and compact. Here is a vine that will not race to the top of your neighbor's pine tree--which makes it valuable where you need a twining vine which will restrain itself and stay put. The flowers are violet-blue, similar to wisteria. Any average garden loam will grow one providing there is good drainage. Hardenbergia wants full sun, will tolerate wind or sea mist, and needs very little pruning. Severe pruning is sometimes harmful.

There is still time to plant more spring bulbs. Scillas are fine for the shady garden and will multiply rapidly. Freesias will bloom in the shade, but the flowers are more fragrant when planted in full sun. If you are looking for a choice item in bulbs try Tritonia crocata, which resembles large coral colored freesias. Babianas are similar in shape but are a rich blue. Both of these little bulbs do very well in our climate.

Hyacinths will bloom either in the sun or shade, the fragrance being more pronounced in the sun, but the flowers lasting longer when planted in the shade. The cost per dozen for hyacinths is higher than most spring bulbs, but they are practical here, for they bloom more consistently in our climate than tulips, the latter tending to deteriorate rapidly in most local gardens.

Tuberous begonias should be dried and stored for the winter. If yours have not yet gone dormant, dig them up and put them where they will not get watered until the stems have dropped off naturally, as it is this growth drying gradually that builds up a good healthy bulb for next year. When the tops have dropped off, shake all loose soil from the bulbs and store them in a box of peatmoss or vermiculite.

Bert Sharpe, as a sheriff who turns against the law to make a few dollars, is just right--and cocky enough for the part. Completely opposite in personality and character is H. A. Van Nuys who is a deputy sheriff. His tenacious searching after the truth of the matter is a stabilizing influence on all. His stage appearance is good, his voice excellent.

Willie Holman plays Dr. Hickman to a "T"--a typical warm-hearted and kindly family doctor.

Ruth McElroy, as Nurse Blanchard, has a small part but proves what can be done with only a few lines.

Patty Trevvett as Lila Rogers, lady of easy virtue, is dressed to the teeth and a knock-out to see. Patty adds the dash of spice with her portrayal of the "fancy" lady, Robert's other-love.

Last to appear is Cora Kyte, played by Bee Mouser. Cora, sister of Mrs. Millay, is a little counterpart of her sister--too attentive, too sweet, too possessive. She provides just another push over the brink into insanity for "Robbie."

The set for "Death on Sunday" is the living room of the old-fashioned Millay mansion, which gives the feeling of a once-elegant home.

To Peg Miner, stage manager, and to Frances Brewer, properties, goes a great deal of credit for the smooth performance, and to Janie Parker and Pat Ingram credit for the excellent job of make-up. All in all, the setting, the costuming, the make-up, the lighting, the acting, blend together to give evidence of a deft and sensitive guiding hand.

Peru's lady bullfighter is quitting to become a housewife. No butcher should be able to fool her about the quality of beef.

BRUCE ARISS, in the costume of an Aztec high priest, with Mrs. Chauncey McKeever, Pebble Beach, during a costume rehearsal for the "Feast of Kulkulkan," gala artists' ball to be held Saturday at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club. The affair is a benefit for the Carmel Art Association Building Fund. Included in the evening's festivity will be a pageant depicting an Aztec sacrificial ceremony. Invitations to the ball may be secured at the door of the Country Club by those who happen to come late. Photograph by STEVE CROUCH.
